

Letter from Mabel Hubbard Bell to Alexander Graham Bell, September 1876, with transcript

Copy of what was evidently a brief note from Mabel Hubbard to Alexander Graham Bell. The original appears to be in her handwriting, and to have been torn, and then pasted on a sheet of note paper. Fred DeLand, March 20, 1925 Souvenir, Sept. 1876 My darling,

I cannot go to bed without telling you how sorry I am if I pained you to-night. I meant it for the best, but I am sorry if I was unkind. I love you very much dear and only wish you were a little more selfish sometimes. I cannot bear to see you working so hard and being so tired when if you would let me I could help you a little at least.

Yours ever, May I shall see you tomorrow early.
